Council updates

- The school of music has put together a jazz equity committee in order to address several reports from students regarding inappropriate behavior by jazz professors.

General updates

- The practice room booking system has been changed to include both booked and walk-in rooms so as to accommodate the various preferences of the student body.
- We will be commencing samosa sales to raise funds for MUSA.
- We recently had our first faculty bar, "The Practice Room", but will not be having another one until next semester due to low finals week interest.
- This semester we have implemented a "buddy system" to help new incoming students get used to Schulich life. Students register and are paired with upperclassmen who meet with them once a week to answer questions, make announcements and check-in on how they're doing.

Budget updates

- We are still waiting for our audit to be completed.
